HER MAJESTY' PABLE.

Friday Morning, May 12, 1871. The Commission and its Fruits. Io so far as the result of the labours of the Joint High Commission which recently sat at Washington can be gathered from dispatches received, we must confess to a feeling of disappoint. ment. With the proposed mode of adjusting the Alabama and other claims arising out of the late terrible civil war, we have no disposition to find fault. If the arrangement meets the Imperial approbation there is no particular reason for colonial dissatisfaction. If the London Times is content the British Colonist has no desire to play the malcontent. But the case is far different when other matters relegated to the Commissions-matters which concern the young empire of North America far more nearly than they do the parent empire —come to be considered. In so far as the adjustment or proposed adjustment of the San Juan dispute is concerned, the information is almost too vague and imperfect to form the basis of remark. Nor is the laconic announcement that the proposed mode of settling this ques-tion is regarded with satisfaction by the Times calculated to help us to a satisfactory conclusion. The San Juan dispute belongs to that class of questions respecting which it may be said the Iimes 'knows little and cares less.' The gratuitous piece of information that 'the United States Government has in its hands much documentary evidence in support of its pretentions not heretofore made use of and is confident that it has the best of reasons to assure its pos-session of San Jean Island, is not entitled to much consideration, coming, as it does, from American sources; yet, under all the circumstances, and in view of the great importance to Canada of the possession of that Island, one cannot altogether keep down a feeling of uneasiness. Of course, if the United States should sucthe United States should succeed in making out a good case there should be no desire to get what does not plustly belong to us; but one cannot help fearing that the Imperial Government, underrating the importance of the Island in question, and looking anxiously to an amicable southement of the printed forms is not made obligatory. matters of apparently greater concernment to the parent empire, may be too much disposed to throw in such little matters, as mere odds and ends. True, no man should be bester able to grasp the question in its largest phase of empire than Sir John A Macdonald; and his presence on the Commission, it was hoped, would be a sort of guarantee that the interests of the Dominion would not be lightly considered. But, then, it must be remembered that he was only one be remembered that he was only one bad only one vote. Porhaps, however, we are scarcely justified, with such meagre information before us, in giving way to these gloomy forebodings. When we come to the question of the fisheries, the dispatch is characterised by a little more perspicalts. It would appear to be intended that the sea fishing grounds of the Dominion—including those of the two Atlantic Provinces still without the pale of the Dominion, although Newfoundland is not named in the dispatch—are to be absolutely as free to the citizens of the United States as to subjects of Great Britain, with the unimportant exception of the right to take shell fish. And what is Canada to receive as an equivalent for a concersion of such conormous, almost incalculable value? A free market in the United States for her fish, and the same liberty to fish in American waters on the Eastern coast, north of the 39th parallel of latitude. The writer of the disputch naivly remarks, 'The privileges thus conceded to the United States are most important ones; and, as if under a feeling of remorse for bartering away a heritage so noble as the Canadian fisheries, the British Commissioners appear to have made some sort of a stipulation that if Canada gives more than she gets she is to be paid the difference! What Canada gets is of comparatively rifling value. To fish in American waters she could have little or no desire. She already sold fully one-halt of her fish to the Americans, and it was no less their interest than get more and cheaper fish; but, hers to get more and cheaper 180; out, having equal rights and facilities with the subjects of Great Britain to fish in Canadian waters, the Americans will catch their fish instead of buying them from the Canadians. They will substitute a steel hook for a silver one, and Canadian waters, the Americans will catch their fish instead of buying them from the Canadians. They will substitute a steel hook for a silver one, and will thus become worse, instead of better, customers of the Dominion. According to the information before us the arrangement in respect to the fisheries, unsatisfactory and one-sided as it would appear to be, does not extend to the Pacific; but it is difficult to believe such to be the case. The question of navigation appears to have been settled in a very off-land way. The St Lawrence with its gigantic canal system — which the Americans cannot well get on w thout-is to be thrown open, and, in ture, certain American rivers — which the Canadians care little about—are inasmuch as the Americans have never ceased to eojoy the St Lawrence and its canal system, the Message of their Chief Magistrate to the contrary not-withstanding, Looking at the whole subject from a Caundian standpoint, there appears to be no ground for selfs THE Snaudant and the contrary not-withstanding. The Canadan standpoint, there appears to be no ground for selfs THE Snaudant and the contrary not-withstanding. The Canadan standpoint, there appears to be no ground for selfs THE Snaudant and the necessary material and machinery. Always to be found at T N Hibber & Co's.

pear to have been wholly ignored. It is proposed to give away fishery rights and navigation advantages which ought to have formed a lover sufficiently powerful to open the United States ports to every Canadian production; and it appears extremely problematic whether the key to the western gate of the Dominion will not go with the It is not altogether insignificant that the work of the Commission is favorably regarded at Washington, and that its prompt ratification at the hands and that its prompt ratification at the hands of the Senate is anticipated. Not is it surprising, on the other hand, that it should be condemned by Newfoundland. Assuming the substantial correctness of our information, we venture the prediction that the disposition of the fisheries question will not be acquiesced in by the Canadian Parliament, Locking at the whole subject from a British Columbiant standards. Looking at the whole subject from a British Columbian standpoint, the aspect is scarcely more encouraging. The arrangement knocks away the last hope of getting a reciprocity treasy; and if it really be so that the treaty does not include the fishing grounds on this coast, it will not, of course, open the American markets to our fish; so that British Columbia will be cut off without a shilling, and will possibly have a foreign fortress on and will possibly have a foreign fortress of and will possibly have a foreign fortress on San Juan looking down upon her capital and frowing upon her commerce. There is at least some consolation in the reflection that the treaty can have no force until endorsed by the Parliaments of Canada and the two Atlantic Provinces. Let us hope, however, that what purports to be 'an official state, ment of the result of the labors of the Joint High Commission' is after all nothing more than the concoction of a Washington correspondent of some enterprising New York journal.

Register! Register!! Wednesday was the first day of registration; and in again urging upon the people the performance of this duty we would point out one or two facts respecting which some misappre: hension may possibly exist. In the first place, we desire to impress upon all the importance of carefulness regarding the correctness of the declaration, as a false one is misdemeanourun der the Act. It is not necessary that the applicant should appear personally before the Collector. He may send either by the hand of more than a fraction of a cont. But the use of the printed forms is not made obligatory. The applicant may, if he prefers it, write out both the Application and the Declaration, and for the convenience of those who may desire to adopt this course we publish the forms in another column. It will thus be seen that the work of registration does not necessarily involve a personal visit to the Collector's office. Personal presence at the Court of Revision, in the event of an application being objected to, will be necessary: but in Court of terraion, in the event of an application being objected to, will be necessary; but in that case due notice will have to be given. The Collector's duty is to receive all applications for registration. He has no discretionary power to reject any. That is the sole prerogative of the Court of Revision. It will be prerogative of the Court of Revision. It will be scarcely necessary to point out what must be sufficiently obvious, viz., that any person who may happen to be at a distance from home or from the District in which the qualification in respect of which it is proposed to vote may be situated, need not thereby be provented from sending in his application. For instance, any one proposing to qualify to vote in the Cariboo District, but now present in this city, may obtain from the nearest Collector the necessary blank forms fill and sign the same and send one proposing to quainty to vote in the Clariboo District, but now present in this city, may obtain from the nearest Collector the necessary blank forms, fill and sign the same and send them by mail to the Collector in Cariboo. If there should be more than one Collector in the District the application should be sent to the one nearest the property upon which the applicant claims to vote. These few simple directions and an bouest purpose on the part of the voter will suffice to guide the enquiring in the path of duty and of safety. Need it be remarked that to be registered is an essential qualification to be elected? A few words by way of a reminder as to who are qualified to register and, consequently, to vote under the new Act, may not be altogether out of place here:—Every male of the full age of twentyone years, not being abject to the usual disqualifications, being entitled within the Colony to the privileges of a natural-born British subject and being able to read English, or, if a natural born British subject, being able to read the language of his country, having resided in this Colony for six mouths previous to the registration of electors, who shall have a freehold estate in possession situated within the ElectoralDistrict in which his vote is to be given, of the clear value of two hundred and fifty dollars above all charges and incumbrances affecting the same, or shall have a leasehold estate in possession, situated within the ElectoralDistrict, of the annual value of forty dollars above all charges and incumbrances affecting the same, or shall be a householder within such District, occupying any house, warehouse, counting-house, office, shop or other building or premises of the clear annual value of forty dollars, or shall pay for lodging the sum of forty dollars, or shall by houndred dollars annually within such District, or who shall bold a duly trict. Where any freehold estate or any lands and tenements are jointly owned, held or occupied by more than one person, each of such joint owners, holders, or occupiers shall be entitled to be registered as an elector and to vote, provided the value of his individual share or interest in the said freehold estate or lands and tenements would, under the provisions of the Act, entitle him to be placed upon the List of Veters. It is also provided that the qualification in respect of which Registration shall have been attained must continue in possession of the party during the three months intervening between Registration and Revision, in so far, only however, as the present year is concerned.

CAPSIZED AND LOST EVERYTHING .- Yester day morning Dan McKinnon and a Frenchman named Peter set sail in a whitehall boat from Victoria harbor for Sombrero river to mine for gold. While rounding Bentinck 1sland (near Race Rocks) a sudden puff of land (cear Race Rocks) a sudden pull, of wind caused the boat to careen, when she filled with water. The men held on to the boat until she sunk beneath them, when they struck out for the shore—which was 150 feet distant—and succeeded in reaching it when quite exhausted. The Beechy Buy Indians, when aware of the accident, came promptly to assist; picked up the boat, some flour and a few of the things, and did all they could to make the unfortunate mee comthey could to make the unfortunate mer com fortable. The articles saved were given to the Indians by the men, who lost a Henry rifle, clothes, boots, Indian trinkets, tools in fact, a complete outfit. the Senate and suggested that it be given to the press. To this several senators interposed objections as they could see no reason for departing from the uniform practice of the Senate. Summer is reported as have said he did not approve of some portions of the treaty and thought they should be amended. He like Cameron, thought the public should be furnished with a full text of the treaty in corder that they might fully understand the provisions in advance of its final passage by the Senate. He was of opinion that the claims of British subjects should not have been incorporated in the treaty as they grew out of things done on the part of Great Britain itself during the war, and that they would not have been admitted if decided opposition had been expressed by our own commissioners. The simple and better plan would have been to make a fair bill for the Alabama and kindred depredations, but he would not now ask its payment in way of exemplary or vindictive damages, as other matters might afterwards be adjusted. He did not however indicate whether he would vote for or against the treaty, as he had not yet had time to examine all its features, some of which were of an important national character. The question of removing the injunction of secrecy so as to enable the press to publish the full text was brought to the vote. The treaty was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. MRS FAIR.—The Oakland (Cal.) New has this about an afflicted Cleopatra: According to the testimony of Dr Lyford, Mrs Feir, when she shot Crittenden, must have been in a terribly bad way. That learned authority says he found her amenic, in addition to which she had retraceder court. tion to which she had retrocedent gout too to which she had retrocedent gout, me-tatasis, dismennorthose gout and insomania. We are likewise given to understand that she also had idiosyncracies! Good heaven! No wonder the poor woman went out of her mind and broke things. It is cheerful to know that Dr Lyford is only thirty-two. By the time he is sixty or seventy he may possibly learn to talk like a man of sense.
